

THE FATAL DOORWAY

(Copyright, 1913, Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

The fatal doorway entrance to Italian Hall, in which were piled, ceiling high, bodies of children, women and men—victims of the horrible catastrophe at Calumet, Mich., Christmas Eve.

Photographed especially for The Day Book by our Staff Photographer.

Now it's planned to speed up the makers south during the winter so they'll work all year 'round. All work and no play makes a dull bee.
